DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: It has been held that the recitation that an element is "adapted to" perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. It does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Streuer et al., U.S. Pat. Application Pub. No. 2003/0077483 A1.

Streuer et al., teaches a battery case comprising a terminal hole in a peripheral wall (Fig. 1), and a contact member mounted in the terminal hole for the contact of the positive terminal of a battery, the contact member having a cylindrical mounting portion riveted to the terminal hole and a contact portion disposed inside the battery case for the contact of the positive terminal of a battery, and a connecting portion extended from the contact and connected to an electric wire, wherein the peripheral wall of the battery case has a flange protruded from an inner surface around the terminal hole and supporting the contact portion of the contact member and keeping the connecting portion of the contact member away from the battery to be positioned in the battery case (sect. 0017-0019). It teaches the flange has a peripheral slope sloping toward the wire for supporting the connecting portion of the contact member (Fig. 1, ref. 5). It teaches the flange has a circular shape (Fig. 1, ref. 5). It teaches the cylindrical mounting portion of the contact member is a hollow structure (sect. 0017; Fig. 1).

Thus, the claims are anticipated.

Conclusion

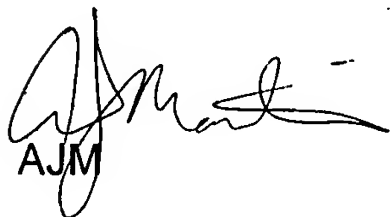

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Romero, U.S. Pat. No. 6,589,691 B2, teaches a feed through arrangement for a battery. Garcin, U.S. Pat. No. 3,948,683, teaches a protective cap for a battery. Sugalski, U.S. Pat. No. 3,503,806, teaches a battery closure having integral peripheral flanges.
